THE New STANDARDS

In 2002, Aneros released the world's first hands-free prostate massager, an anatomically-configured product specially balanced to work in harmony with a user's contractions. In the years since, millions of men have been introduced to the concept of prostate pleasure and the wonders of the Male G-Spot orgasm (Super O). In late 2017, we released the Trident series. These devices introduced MAMAT™ balancing architecture and a new arm configuration that demonstrated a tremendous improvement in product performance. The public response in 2018 was overwhelming, making it clear a milestone had been reached. Going forward, we will be incorporating these design elements into our existing product line as well as our new products, establishing a new standard now and for years to come.

COMMAND & CONTROL

The VICE 2™ includes a sophisticated wireless remote for total control of all device features, including; 18 preset vibrations patterns, 4 speed selection and a Joy Button for interactive command of vibration intensity. The Joy Button puts on demand vibration at your fingertips, excellent for providing that extra push over the edge, just when you need it, or for tapping out your own special pattern. The remote's ergonomic layout allows effortless single-handed pattern navigation and includes an LED pattern number display.
